

Because their brains are growing, adolescents who use THC are more likely to get addicted than adults who use THC.